

Antoine Dutailis, Conductor

Born in 1996 in Paris, Antoine Dutailis began his musical studies at a very early age, studying the piano, the guitar and choral singing.

After a scientific baccalaureate, he was admitted at the age of sixteen to the Conservatoire National Supérieur de Musique de Paris (CNSMDP), where he both studied writing (Jean-François Zygel, Thierry Escaich...) and piano accompaniment (Reiko Hozu, Jean-Frédéric Neuburger).

Already owner of seven Master's degrees at the CNSMDP (Harmony, Counterpoint, Fugue and Forms, Piano Accompaniment, Orchestration, Analysis, Vocal coaching), he obtained a Master's degree in orchestral conducting last spring in Alain Altinoglu's class., where he was admitted in 2017 after having studied with George Pehlivanian and Adrian McDonnell and Erika Guioamar's direction class.

During numerous Master Classes, he had the opportunity to work with conductors such as Mikko Franck, Bertrand de Billy, Arie Van Beek, Pascal Rophé, Lawrence Foster, Peter Manning, Tito Ceccherini, Ariane Matiakh...

He has conducted, among others, the Orchestre National de Picardie, the Orchestre National d'Avignon-Provence, the Orchestre National des Pays de la Loire, the Hungarian-Miskolc Symphony Orchestra, the Orchestre des Lauréats du Conservatoire and the Ensemble Intercontemporain ; He also conducted the recording of a creation by Thierry Escaich, De la joie dans ce combat, with the soloists of the Paris Opera and a concert version of The Magic Flute, at the Musée des Beaux-Arts in Valenciennes.

At the Philharmonie de Paris, he was assistant conductor to Semyon Bychkov for Mahler's 2th Symphony with the Orchestre de Paris and Alexander Briger for Britten's Tour d'Ecrou.

Since 2022, he has been regularly invited as assistant conductor to Alexandre Bloch at the Orchestre National de Lille, has assisted Michael Schönwandt at the Orchestre Français des Jeunes.

He was a semi-finalist in the Siemens-Hallé International Conducting Competition in Manchester and was named "Musician of the Month" by the magazine HVUSoundMovement in December 2021.

Very concerned with transmission and inclusion, he has taken part in projects to raise young people's awareness of music, with for example Le Grand Bal Modern Style at the Zenith de Paris, where he conducted the orchestra and a choir of 350 high school students from the Parisian region.

In addition, since 2015, he has been a pianist and arranger for actor-singers (Le Hall de la Chanson and the Conservatoire National Supérieur d'Art Dramatique), which has allowed him to develop stage experience. In April 2022, one of his compositions was premiered at the Opéra de Rennes.

Antoine Dutailis has been represented by RSB Artists since 2022.
